Procedural Fairness in International Courts and Tribunals

University of Surrey, Guildford

19-20 September 2014

The Surrey International Law Centre of the University of Surrey School of Law, with the support of the Institute of Advanced Studies, the McCoubrey Centre of the University of Hull and the British Institute of International and Comparative Law, will host a two-day workshop on the identification of core standards of procedural fairness before international courts and tribunals. A timely topic for study, the workshop programme features a strong range of senior, mid-career and early career scholars, practitioners and judges. The workshop employs a comparative approach whereby participants will analyse the procedures and practices of various international courts and tribunals. It aims to identify patterns of commonality and divergence and to develop a holistic understanding of the nature of procedural fairness and of the challenges to its realisation in the international judicial system.

The workshop committee warmly welcomes all interested persons to participate in the workshop. Interested parties should register by 31 August via the workshop website: <http://ocs.som.surrey.ac.uk/index.php/SILC/SILC2014>. The fee for participation in the two-day workshop is £100 along with £50 for the conference dinner, which will feature a dinner speech by Professor Philippe Sands QC. A total of 11 CPD hours have been accredited to this event for barristers and solicitors.
